DRUMMER BOY OF RAPPAHANNOCK

Dec. 26 - 1925

R. H. Hendershott, Oak
Park, in War at 10 1/2.

Robert Henry Hendershott, who was one of the youngest soldiers in the civil war, enlisting as a drummer at the age of 10 years and 6 months, and known as the "Drummer Boy of the Rappahannock" with the 9th Michigan infantry, died yesterday at his home, 306 North boulevard, Oak Park.

Abraham Lincoln in 1865 appointed him to West Point Military academy with the declaration, "I know this boy, and believe he is very brave, manly and worthy." The recommendation for his appointment came from Lieut. Gen. Grant, in these terms: "I would most respectfully recommend this boy for a cadetship at West Point for the coming year."

Mr. Hendershott was rejected at the academy on the grounds of physical incapacity. He had been wounded at Fredericksburg. Horace Greeley wrote to his mother: "I am sure that the little we did for your son in presenting him with a drum was prompted solely by admiration for his heroism, and by hopes for his future usefulness, which are still strong and high."

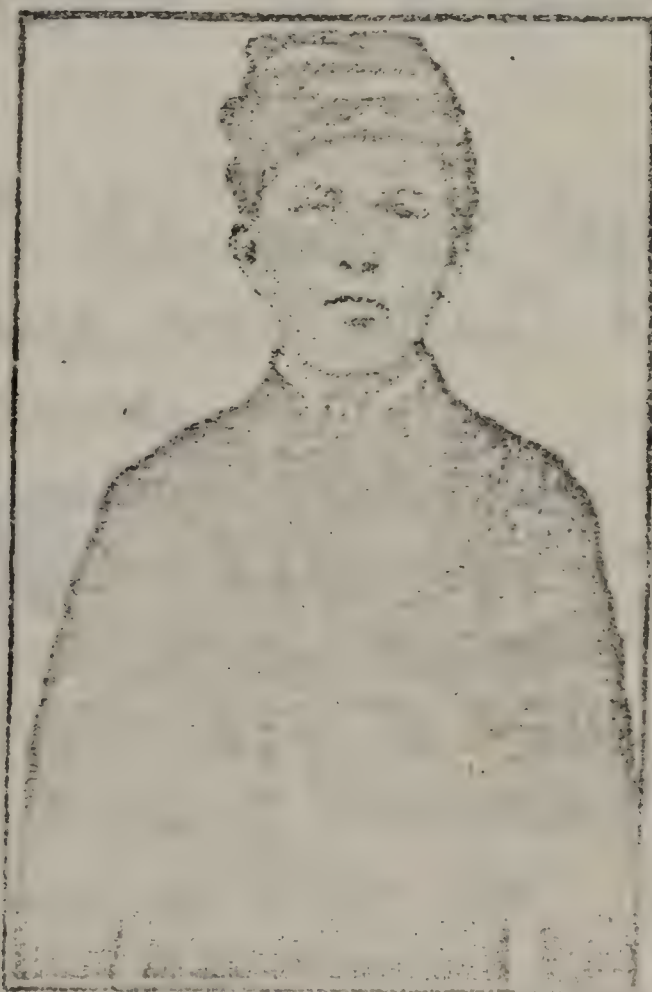

Following his rejection from West Point, Mr. Hendershott entered the government service and finally became connected with the postoffice department. For over eighteen years he had charge of the fast mail between New York and Buffalo on the New York Central railroad. Several years ago he retired from active work.

Dies at Age of 76.

He was 76 years old when he died yesterday from pneumonia. Friends said that he was stricken five days ago and was reconciled to the end.

Mr. Hendershott's wife died several years ago. Two children survive his death. A daughter, Mrs. Annie Horton, is the wife of E. B. Horton, 322 North Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park, a cousin of the late Theodore Roosevelt. The funeral will be private, according to relatives.

"Drummer Boy" Dies

The noble House von Haiderschatt.

In the reign of Louis XIV. King of France, during "The Thirty Years War" in Europe, from twelve to twenty thousand Germans fled the Rhineish provinces of Germany and went to England. Ten vessels embarked from Plymouth, England December 29, 1709 for New York, U.S.A. This is known in history as "The Second German Immigration." This voyage lasted six months, to June 14, and to August, 1710. One boat was driven back to Plymouth, England, in a terrible storm, and another vessel overturned in the port of Plymouth, England, and all were drowned. Over seven hundred passengers died on this voyage to America, and all the remainder were diseased, and were landed on Rotten's, now Governor's Island, New York, until the State of New York could restore them to health, and place them on estates or farms. Our ancestor, Michael Henneschied v. Haiderschatt, with his wife, Katherine Anne, and children, were about the last to land, - on the ship - "Lyon" - 13th June, 1710. When Ann, was Queen of England. The family's name, von Haiderschatt has been anglicised to about twenty different spellings, - see note, - until they did not know one another. The most popular form seems to be Henderschott. Haiderschatt is still more like the original Noelling - v. Haiderschatt - - - - -

There has been three places in the United States named "Hendershot".

Hendershot.- Belmont County.- Ohio.

The above named town is spelled with one t.

Hendershot Corners.- Union County, Oregon. so named for the late Hon. James Hendershot, Sr. of Forest Cove Farm.- Cove, Union County, Oregon.

One of the most beautiful estates in western Oregon. The only estate in Oregon where a flock of peacocks - and peacocks were to be seen from the mansion.

"Camp Hendershot" - Waverport, Iowa. named for the late Colonel Henry Boscom Hendershot. United States Army, born May 23-1824. in Kentucky. appointed to military academy at West Point, New York. Class 1847.

Brevet Colonel, U. S. Army, March 3-1865.

"Camp Hendershot" was named in his honor. he married Maria, daughter of Samuel Baird, by and wife, Rebecca, daughter of Madoc Fisher, by Lexington, Kentucky, and Springfield, Ohio.

Colonel Henry Boscom Hendershot died July 14-1906. leaving two daughters in Savannah, Georgia. He was son of Dr. Isaac Hendershot, M. D. first President of Ohio Medical Society, Springfield, Ohio, and Elizabeth Young Keene, Rev. Col. Ky. Episcopalians - Democrats. Home owners.

Isaac Hendershot was born in New Jersey.-

March.-1792.- son of Casper (Kasber) born in Bavaria, Germany. Nov-3-1699. son (oldest) of Christian, Michael, born 1673-4- Bavaria.

Wages Survey

87

The following table shows the wages paid to the various classes of labour in the district of ... in the year 1911. The wages are given in pence per week for a 48-hour week. The figures are based on the returns received from the employers and are not necessarily the actual wages paid to the workers.

The wages of the different classes of labour are as follows:

1. Unskilled labour - The wages of unskilled labour are the lowest in the district. They are given in the following table:

Class of labour	Wages per week (pence)
General unskilled labour	10 to 12
Unskilled labour in agriculture	8 to 10
Unskilled labour in manufacturing	10 to 12
Unskilled labour in commerce	12 to 14

2. Skilled labour - The wages of skilled labour are higher than those of unskilled labour. They are given in the following table:

Class of labour	Wages per week (pence)
Skilled labour in agriculture	12 to 14
Skilled labour in manufacturing	14 to 16
Skilled labour in commerce	16 to 18

3. Professional labour - The wages of professional labour are the highest in the district. They are given in the following table:

Class of labour	Wages per week (pence)
Professional labour in agriculture	18 to 20
Professional labour in manufacturing	20 to 22
Professional labour in commerce	22 to 24

The above table shows that the wages of professional labour are the highest, followed by skilled labour, and then unskilled labour. This is the normal order of things in any district.

The Drummer Boy of the Rappahannock,
a poem, was written by Fred Emerson Brooks, nationally known as "The Poet of Pacific."

General O. O. Howard, U. S. Army, gave Mr.
Brooks the following information while we were at the Grand Army National Incampment, held in San Francisco, California,
May, 1887, and at the Grand Campfire held in the evening, in San Francisco.
Mr. Brooks handed this poem to General
O. O. Howard, who read it to the audience as an introduction of Robert Henry Hendershott, before he played his "Imitation of a Battle," which thrilled
General Howard, and the house.

San Francisco, California, was the first Grand Army National Incampment that I had attended, we had a wonderful time.
On the day of the Grand parade - Major-(Drum) Robert Henry Hendershott and son led the Grand Parade of many soldiers in line. Since that time we led in the Grand parades at St. Louis, Mo., St. Paul, Minn. - Louisville, Ky. and at Detroit, Michigan, where we headed the Grand parade with President Rutherford
B. Hayes. - General Nelson Miles, - U. S. Army
General R. A. Alger, of Detroit, Michigan.

THE DRUMMER BOY OF THE RAPPAHANNOCK.

BY FRED. EMERSON BROOKS.

'Twas a question if the Nation should such tender youth employ
As Robert Henry Hendershot, the little drummer boy;
A prodigy at drumming—being only twelve years old—
And a prodigy of valor if you hear his story told.
At Fredericksburg's great battle
The soldiers heard the rattle
Of his drum!

There stood Burnside with his army in the soft December mud,
With the Rappahannock rolling like a war-dividing flood;
While the batteries of Robert Lee that crowned the farther ridge,
Dealing death, forbade the building of the needed pontoon bridge.
For Burnside came to battle,
And they knew it by the rattle
Of the drum!

When Burnside called for volunteers to make the other bank,
The Rappahannock Drummer Boy was first to leave the rank;
And while a cheer for Hendershot went up from every throat,
There followed thirty others, just enough to man the boat;
He said "Ill stem the battle!"
And they heard it in the rattle
Of the drum!

"Clear out, youngster!" said the Captain, "Back to camp I bid you go!"
And although he answered "Yes Sir!" still he kept on thinking "No!"
He was bound to cross that river, so he clung behind the boat,
With his little legs a-kicking—half a-swimming, half afloat;
He was eager for the battle
And to lead them with the rattle
Of his drum!

Robert Henry Hendershot was presented with a silver drum by the late Grace Greely, of the N. Y. Tribune, in the Cocher Institute, N. Y. through the hands of General Winfield Scott, U. S. Army.
R. H. Hendershot traveled the State of Illinois with General John A. Logan, - later Vice President of the U. S. - and U. S. Senator of Illinois in the "Garfield vs Arthur" political campaign of 1880. He was given a pair of gold mounted drum sticks - inscribed "To R. H.
Hendershot - Drummer Boy of Rappahannock for services in Garfield vs Arthur Campaign, 1880". At Indianapolis, Indiana, - G. A. R.
Encampment, - The Grand Army of the Republic, with the Womens Relief Corps - presented him with another beautiful drum.
With a very handsome drum - Major's coat, - uniform. These articles, valued were presented to the State Grand Army museum, in the State House, Lansing, Michigan, where they are now - as a historical monument to Robert Henry - Hendershot, who enlisted in Voluntary Army of Michigan, in Civil War, at the age - of ten and a half years -
The youngest soldier to enlist in Civil War in 1861. -

He was given a gold G. A. R. badge, studded with nine diamonds, which is retained as an heirloom in the family. C. B. v. H.

Lee's batteries ceased firing from the heights beyond the town,
Or Burnside with his cannon would have knocked the village down.

When the little boat had landed through that special storm of lead,

Nearly all the men were wounded, more than half the braves were dead:

And a shell from out the battle
Had "busted up" the rattle
Of his drum.

With a dying soldier's rifle soon he clambered up the bank
Looking every inch a hero though a very little "Yank;"
He rushed into a building just as if he'd take the town,
But finding it deserted thought it best to burn it down,

Adding to the smoke of battle,
And to make up for the rattle

Of his drum!

Found a man in the garden kneeling down behind the gate,

With his gun poked through a knot-hole for some poor unfortunate;

When he found he was not praying, then he hit upon the plan

Of his capture—so he shouted, "Now surrender, mister man!"

And in his boyish treble
He bade the frightened rebel Drop his gun.

Though the boy looked very little, yet the gun looked very big

To the man whose hair kept rising like the bristles on a pig;
And he marched before the youngster who could hardly raise his gun,

And who took him o'er the pontoon, shouting "Prisoner number one!"

The youngster thinking he Had captured General Lee
With his gun!

Three cheers went up along the line, as fast the story ran,
For Robert Henry Hendershot, the boy who took the man!

And straight to General Burnside he took the man in gray—

The chieftain hailed him proudly as "the hero of the day!"

"You've fired the men for battle
Much more than by the rattle
Of your drum!"

In the battle that succeeded he was carried from the fray
Doubly wounded; long unconscious in the hospital he lay.
Horace Greeley heard the story, and with those in his employ,

Gave a silver drum to honor "Rappahannock's drum- mer boy!"

And the people gazed in wonder
To hear the storm and thunder
In his drum!

"Castle Thunder"—"Libby Prison"—twice a captive in the war!

In the list of youthful heroes he has no competitor.
Grant and Lincoln gave him honor, and the people of the day

Gave him one wreath for his valor and another for his play!

He imitates a battle
And the locomotive rattle
On his drum!

As a hero and a drummer he's the marvel of the age.

"Drummer Boy of Rappahannock"—write it on historic page!

And let every youth remember, who the story may relate,
If in life he prove a hero he'll be honored by the great.

And his deeds in life's great battle
Shall far excel the rattle

Of a drum!

Canadian Hendershotts:

genealogy I obtained while traveling in Canada. 1910-1920, having met several members in London, Toronto, and Montreal, P. E. Canada. They too, are proud of their ancestors in Canada. - N. S. - and the Barbours. The majority of the Canadian family are religious people, and have become intensely English; many are United Empire Loyalists, and attend the Church of England. Several have had great wealth, and have gone abroad for their education.

This genealogy is undoubtedly the first of its kind to be placed in any Public Library. Having but six or seven years the effort to get all these notes together, has been great. The Canadian family have used one "t" to their name - Hensershot; - others have used the two "ts" - one has broken the rule and has spelled his name with a "c" in his Hensershot, as others have done in the United States.

All genealogies have errors in them, the details here presented are as accurate as I could get them, by correspondence.

"A claim to distinction," the Canadian family, on the female side, are descended of Judge Corwin. (Corwin) who sentenced Sewall (17) to be hanged for witchcraft, - at Salem, Mass. I told Sandra Jane Hendershot (Mrs. O'Leary) that I was ashamed of her ancestor, and Canadian Hendershotts.

The lady has never spoken to me since. It is best to think twice before you slander ones parents. no matter how scandalous they have been. I have visited the "Witch House" in Salem, Mass. and stood in the place where these unfortunate ladies were condemned to die as witches. Price of admission was twenty five cents.

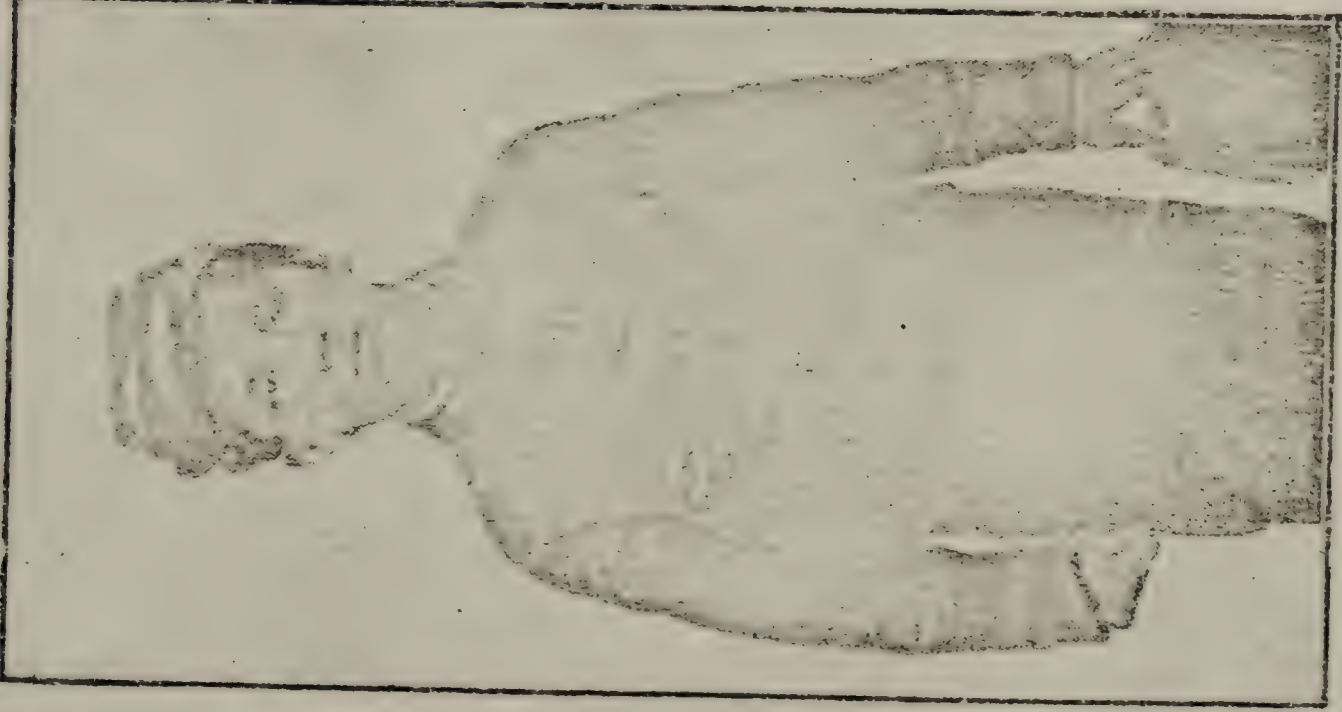

1913- William M. Hendershott - Esq. - was President of Thorold Board of Trade. Thorold. - Ontario - Canada. His death was caused by accident - August 14 - 1913.

Robert Henry Hendershott

Eleven Years of Age at the Time He Went to the Front With the 9th Mich. Inf., Oct. 25, 1861, and the Youngest Enlisted Soldier in 1861

Robert Henry Hendershott entered the service as a drummer boy of the Ninth Michigan Infantry in 1861. He was always brave, gallant and worthy, and is of the proper metal to make a good soldier.

J. G. PARKHURST, Late Colonel 9th Mich. Inf.

I know this boy, and believe he is very brave, manly and worthy.

A. LINCOLN, January 10, 1865.

Washington, D. C., 1863.—It affords me the greatest pleasure to testify to the great gallantry and loyalty of young Hendershott. He served under me faithfully for some time, and at the battle of Fredericksburg displayed most distinguished courage.

A. E. BURNSIDE, Major General.

Headquarters Armies of the U. S., City Point, Va., January 14, 1865.—I would most respectfully recommend this boy for a cadetship at West Point for the coming year.

U. S. GRANT, Lt. General.

Treasury of the U. S., Washington, D. C., January 1st, 1865.

—Aside from Major Hendershott's good conduct in the military service, of which I know, I have seen evidences of his great personal bravery. I think him made for the military service.

F. E. SPINNER, Treasurer of the U. S.

Letter from Horace Greeley to Major Hendershott's mother: Mrs. Hendershott.—I have just received your letter and photograph. I assure you the little we did for your son in presenting him with a drum was prompted solely by admiration for his heroism and by hopes of his future usefulness which are still strong and high. In the firm trust that he will live to favor and comfort you, I remain, Yours truly,

HORACE GREELEY.
